

WORLD'S TOP ART CRITICS HERE—Probably the greatest international group of art critics ever to gather in Houston were here today for a two-day visit and a tour of the Museum of Fine Arts, the Contemporary Art Museum, and private art collections. They're all members of the International Art Critics Association, of which James Johnson Sweeney, director of the Houston Museum of Fine Arts, is president. They represent about half of the delegates to the international convention just ended in Mexico City. They visited the Museum of Fine Arts today and were guests of oilman R. E. (Bob) Smith at his Sugarland ranch, where they enjoyed a western barbecue. They were guests of Herman and George Brown at the Bayou Club last night and tonight they will be dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John de Menil. Today they were to visit the private collections of Mrs. Edward Hudson, Mrs. Kenneth Dale Owen, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Schlumberger, Mr. and Mrs. Higford Griffiths, Ralph Fabacher, the De Menils, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Strauss and Miss Ima Hogg. In the picture, left to right, are Enzo Carli, superintendent of the Gallery, Sienna, Italy; Jose Augusto Franca,

France and the Netherlands; Magda Van Emde Boas, Amsterdam; Prof. Carlo Margain, Mexico City; Cevad Memduh Altar, Istanbul, Turkey; Sander Torday, France and the Netherlands; Baron Michel Dar, director of fine arts, UNESCO, Paris; Mr. Sweeney; Felecia Bejar, Mexico City; Dr. Girt Schiff, Zurich, Switzerland; Dr. Hans L. C. Jaffe, vice president AICA, Amsterdam; Carl Linfert, Cologne, Germany; Vicomtesse L. Benoit d'Azy, Paris; Prof. Ionel Jianou, Paris; Miss Angela Alessio, director of public works, Mexico City, and Dr. Heinz Goetz, Germany.

How Blows The Wind?

Does the political wind blow against President Kennedy—as it usually does against a U. S. president in a year with no presidential election?

Wind-tester extraordinary Samuel Lubell is out ringing doorbells again, in search of the answers.

Front-porch quizmaster Lubell has charted America's voting behavior since the year 1896—on paper. He has studied our political moods himself, in person, since the Eisenhower landslide in 1952—which he forecast on the button, incidentally.

You'll find the first of his pulse-taking reports Monday in the

Pollen Count Passes 1000 Mark

The pollen count in Houston's hayfever season achieved something of a goal today by passing the 1000 mark.

The Houston Health Laboratory reported 1051 as the latest count. It is the first time this year that the pollen has been above that mark. Health officials say it may get much higher.

Sculpture in Food A Hit at Trade Fair

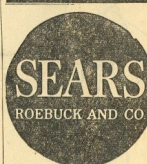

By LOUIS BLACKBURN
Press Staff Writer

Houston's chef de cuisine turned sculptors to create chefs d'oeuvre in the Houston International Trade and Travel Fair's culinary exhibits in the Corral above that mark. Health officials say it may get much higher.

Imaginative World
The chefs created sculptured masterpieces from fish, fowl, crustaceans, pigs, meat and vegetables in the most imaginative culinary exhibition ever on display here.

The exhibit included such creations as "The Beatnik Lobster Dance Band," created from the flesh and armor of lobsters, were d'honneur in decorated
